Ruling Rome & Emperors

Ancient Rome was ruled in three different ways; as a kingdom (753–509 BC), as a republic (509–27 BC) and as an empire (27 BC–AD 476). Roman emperors had absolute power.

The Empire & the army

The Roman army conquered countries all around the Mediterranean Sea. It was at its largest between AD 117 and AD 200. The Roman army was well structured, had a clear hierarchy, was led by high ranking officers and ordinary soldiers were expected to follow commands and keep an oath to the emperor. All soldiers had similar equipment, armour, shields for protection and javelins and swords for fighting.

Romanisation of Britain

Julius Caesar invaded Britain in 55 /54 BC, but was unsuccessful. Emperor Claudius successfully conquered Britain in AD 43. The Roman army spent many years, conquering Britain. Caledonia (Scotland) and Hibernia (Ireland) were never conquered. Boudicca was the queen of the Celtic Iceni tribe who revolted against Roman rule in AD 60–61.
